

Frequently Asked Questions Power To Go

What, exactly, is Power To Go?

Power To Go is a company that provides on-sight electrical power to homes and businesses that have lost power due to hurricanes or other disasters.

How does it work?

Businesses buy tow-able electrical generators from us. We can store them and maintain them throughout the year to make sure they are in good working order. Before the disaster strikes, you pick up your generators from one of our convenient locations, hook them up to your home or business, and we provide you with fuel to keep them running.

The last time there was a hurricane there was no fuel available for days. What good is a generator if I can't get fuel.

We've thought of that. Power To Go maintains its own mobile mini-fuel stations in strategic locations. We guarantee that there will be plenty of fuel to run your generator.

Is all this preparation really necessary? After all, hurricanes may miss my business entirely.

That's true, they might. But consider this: We are in the beginning of a 20 – 25 year very active Hurricane cycle. In the past two years, more than 10 million people have been left without power in Florida because of various hurricanes and economic losses exceeded several billion dollars.

Something else to consider: If your business doesn't have the power it needs to conduct its business, how long do you think it can stay alive?

Okay, let's say we're hit by a hurricane, we lose power, and we come get our generator. Who hooks it up and gets it working?

Power to Go can refer a reputable electrician in your area for any and all electrical work necessary, including installing a manual transfer switch. They will instruct you on how to properly and safely start your generator.

If you have an electrician that you would rather use, that's fine. We will work with them to make sure they know exactly how to hook your generator up and get it running.

How long will it stay on site?

You own the generator, so as long as you need it.

What happens if the generator breaks down while it's in operation?

Call us. We'll rush to your site and repair it or replace it with a rental unit.

Who else is offering this service besides you?

We are the pioneer in this business. In fact, the Power To Go concept is so unique that it has been awarded a pending patent.

What geographic area do you cover?

We currently cover the entire state of Florida. In the future, we plan to expand that coverage area to include the Gulf and Atlantic coasts.

What businesses are the most likely to use Power To Go's services?

Really any sort of business, because virtually all businesses need electricity to function. Some business types that come to mind include restaurants, banks, telecommunications and Internet-based ventures, supermarkets and gas stations/variety stores. Other operators might include hospitals, funeral homes, churches and schools. Basically, if your company uses electricity, Power To Go is for you.
